EAST CAROLINA UNIVERSITY

East Carolina University, North Carolina’s fastest growing institution of higher learning was founded in 1907 as a state supported teacher training school. Developing and growing rapidly, East Carolina became a state university in 1967 and a constituent campus of The University of North Carolina system in 1972. ECU serves as a focal point in eastern North Carolina for higher education in many fields.

East Carolina University is divided into three campuses. Main Campus is adjacent to downtown Greenville and is composed of classroom buildings, administrative buildings, residence halls, open grounds, and athletics facilities. The Brody School of Medicine on the Health Sciences Campus is adjacent to the 861-bed Pitt County Memorial Hospital, which serves as a teaching hospital for the School of Medicine. Located in west Greenville, the Health Sciences Campus is composed of the ECU medical complex, administrative buildings, and open grounds including a two-acre pond. The West Research Campus houses the North Carolina Institute for Health and Safety in Agriculture, Forestry, and Fisheries.

Greenville is located eighty miles east of Raleigh and is accessible by major highways and nearby airports. The population of Greenville is approximately 89,000 and in Pitt County, approximately 174,000.

Enrollment at ECU is approximately 28,000 students, with 5,500 residing on campus. The University employs approximately 1,400 faculty members, 2,900 staff members, and has visitors in excess of 1,000 per day. The Brody School of Medicine complex sees approximately 1,300 patients per day though the outpatient center and other clinics.

HOW TO APPLY

To search job postings and to apply for a position with the East Carolina University Police Department, complete and submit an online application to East Carolina University Human Resources by visiting www.jobs.ecu.edu or www.ecu.edu and follow the Jobs @ ECU link.
The ECU Police Department is responsible for maintaining a safe and pleasant environment in which to live, learn, and work. ECU’s police officers are charged with providing essential services to the university community, protecting life and property, and preventing and detecting crime on campus. The officers enforce both the laws of the State of North Carolina and the regulations of the University.

The ECU Police Department is a full-service police organization staffed by approximately sixty full-time sworn certified police officers, ten part-time sworn certified police officers, twelve telecommunicators, and eight full-time administrative support personnel.

The Department operates twenty-four hours a day, 365 days per year, providing around-the-clock protection and services to the campus community. The police telecommunications center is equipped with a computer-aided dispatch program and is able to handle all types of emergency communications. The Telecommunicators monitor alarms and cameras strategically located throughout campus. In excess of one hundred Emergency Blue-Light Phones are located throughout campus. These phones, when activated, ring directly into the ECU Police Telecommunications Center.

MISSION STATEMENT

The mission of the ECU Police Department is to assist students, faculty, staff, and visitors in maintaining a safe environment and to enhance the quality of life at East Carolina University.

The ECU Police Department follows a philosophy of community policing, which is to enhance the education and awareness of crime prevention by interaction and involvement with students in their own environment. Through a variety of programs and services, the ECU Police Department is able to work one on one or in small groups to get to know and understand today’s students and educate them on safety and security.

We will treat everyone with whom we come into contact with, with dignity and respect and believe that integrity has no price. The Department recognizes the value and worth of each member of the ECU Police Department and seeks their input. We are committed to creating well-rounded officers by providing training, experience and compensating them at a level that promotes successful work performance, and maintaining competitiveness to recruit, train, develop a competent and diverse police force. The Department will model professional law enforcement and continuously seek to improve through teamwork and accountability of our actions.
